HEREBY DECREES

Art. 1 - Institution

The PhD in Sociology and Methodology of Social Research is instituted at the universities of Milan and Turin for academic year 2020/2021 (36th cycle), subject to accreditation by the MUR, and ongoing compliance with accreditation requirements.

The doctoral research programme in Sociology and Methodology of Social Research is established within the context of a network of north-western universities, NASP-West “Network for the Advancement of Social and Political Studies in North-West Italy”, in the area of social and political sciences.

A public competition for admission to the aforementioned PhD programme will be held at the University of Milan; selection will be based on qualifications and exams. The table annexed to this decree, which is an integral part thereof, contains a brief description of the programme, as well as the examination window, and a link to the University’s website. The latter provides information on the research topics identified by the Academic Board, in line with the course objectives and the relevant research and advanced training programme, that will be offered to candidates admitted to the PhD programme. The deadlines and methods for candidates to choose research topics are set out in art. 21 of the University Regulations on doctoral programmes at the University of Milan (administrative centre).

The number of scholarships may be increased should external funding become available before the deadline established by the call for submission of applications to the competition.

Foreign candidates who are in receipt of scholarships issued by their country of origin may be admitted to the doctoral programmes over and above the prescribed number, provided that they have passed the admission exams set out in this decree.

Art. 2 - Admission requirements

Candidates in possession of a second cycle degree (Laurea magistrale), an equivalent qualification or a qualification equivalent to the level of studies (Master’s Degree) awarded by a foreign university, may apply to take part in the competition for admission to the doctoral research programme, as per the article above.

The suitability of the foreign academic qualifications in terms of content is evaluated by the Examining Committee set up for admission to the PhD programme, in compliance with the regulations in force in Italy and in the country in which the academic qualification was issued, and with the international treaties or agreements on the recognition of qualifications for the purpose of continuing studies.

Candidates who have not yet completed their second cycle (magistrale) degree may also apply. In this case, candidates who are admitted onto the PhD course must obtain the required qualification by 31 October 2020, on penalty of not being admitted.

The reference letters will be looked at in conjunction with the candidate's CV but will not be awarded any points.

Art. 4 - Disabled candidates

To this end, they must submit a specific declaration of disability or of Learning Disability (form available at the University webpage Modulistica generale - general forms), along with a medical certificate attesting to the validity of the request.

Scanned copies of the form and certificate must be uploaded during the online application procedure.

Art. 5 - Admission exam

Admission to the PhD programme is through a public selection procedure involving the evaluation of qualifications and tests for the comparative assessment of candidates. An Examining Committee set up and appointed in compliance with current regulations will carry out the procedure.

The selection procedure aims to assess the applicant's training, capabilities and aptitude for scientific research, as well as his/her personal motivations. It involves assessment of the CV and a research project, possibly based on his/her second cycle degree dissertation, as well as an online interview. The research project, which must be prepared according to a standard format (Form 1 attached hereto), is relevant for the sole purposes of selection and does not constitute any obligation regarding the candidate's subsequent choice of doctoral thesis in the event that they are admitted.

The candidate's CV and research project will be evaluated prior to interview, and candidates will be able to see the result of the evaluation on the University portal.

Evaluation of the CV will take into account the candidate's entire university career, any publications, any professional experience and other qualifications held. The Examining Committee can give a maximum of 20 points for the CV, taking into consideration the statistical distribution of the exam marks for their respective study course, as well as the conditions and the amount of time taken by the candidate to obtain their qualifications

A maximum of 10 points can be awarded for the research project.

Candidates who obtain a score of at least 50% of the maximum points obtainable for the CV and the research project can be called for interview.

The interview will take place in an open session, according to the schedule posted to the University website, and is aimed at ascertaining the candidate's knowledge of topics relating to the educational and scientific fields of the PhD. The interview stage includes a seminar style presentation of the applicant's proposed research project, followed by a general discussion aimed at verifying their skills, scientific knowledge and personal motivations. A maximum of 70 points can be awarded for the interview

The interview will be held in English.

In order to sit the examinations, applicants must show one of the following forms of ID:

- a) Identity card;
- b) Passport;
- c) (Italian) driving licence.

At the end of each interview session, the Committee will draw up a list of the candidates who have sat the exam and the marks obtained by each one in the exam. The interview outcome will be notified by the Committee at the end of each day.

At the end of the examination, the Committee compiles a general merit ranking based on the sum of the scores obtained by the applicants from the evaluation of their CV, the research project and the interview.

Candidates must obtain a minimum score of 70/100 to pass the admission exam.

The general ranking is published on the page Graduatorie ammissioni post laurea Postgraduate admission rankings page in the days following the examinations.

It is incumbent on the Committee to complete procedures no later than 1 October 2020.

Art. 6 - Admission to the PhD programmes

Applicants are admitted to the programme in accordance with the ranking order until the number of places available for each PhD programme has been filled. Where applicants achieve the same score, preference will be given to younger applicants, with the exception of the right of priority criterion for the awarding of PhD grants set forth in art. 8 of this call for applications. The ranking of eligible applicants will be published online, on the days following the interviews, in the University website Graduatorie ammissioni post laurea Postgraduate admission rankings page.

The ranking published on the University website constitutes notification to the interested parties since they will not receive written communication

Applicants admitted to the course will lose their entitlement if they fail to enrol within the specified deadlines. Should this occur, their place shall be given to the next applicant in the ranking list. This also applies if an admitted applicant withdraws within three months of the start of the programme. If the withdrawing student has already used any monthly scholarship payment, he/she is required to return it. The PhD Administration office will email takeover applicants directly with the relevant instructions and the deadlines for registration.

Once the final rankings are published, non-EU citizens residing abroad who have been admitted to the doctoral programme will receive an e-mail (from international.students@unimi.it), with the admission letter for obtaining a student visa.

Art. 7 - Enrolment

Doctoral Programme in Sociology and Methodology of Social Research (SOMET)

Learning objectives

The doctoral programme in Sociology and Methodology of Social Research offers theoretical/analytical and technical/methodological research training in the best tradition of international empirical sociology. It is intended to train researchers capable of analysing social and cultural change through close integration between theory and empirical research. The programme combines a solid theoretical/conceptual grounding with full mastery of the most up-to-date quantitative and qualitative research methods and techniques, including digital. This means providing doctoral students with all the tools for carrying out original investigations, both theoretically oriented and empirically based, on a wide range of aspects of contemporary digital societies. Great emphasis is placed on the comparison of different social situations and contexts, including with a supranational focus, and through prolonged periods of research abroad. Teaching is delivered in English. While firmly anchored in the concepts and methods of sociological disciplines, the doctoral programme will constantly interact with other social sciences - anthropology, psychology, political science, economics, demography, statistics, computer science - with a view to a better understanding of researched phenomena.

The programme is delivered entirely in English.
