If the SLD was diagnosed in childhood, and the certificate is over three years old, students should apply for an updated certificate, to be submitted after enrollment for the purposes of using SLD accommodations as offered by the study programme.

Art. 6 - Admission exam

Admission to the PhD programmes is through a public selection procedure involving the evaluation of qualifications and tests for the comparative assessment of candidates. An Examining Committee set up and appointed in compliance with current regulations will carry out the procedure. The Committee may avail itself of the assistance of experts in the research areas listed in the annexed table, but solely to express an opinion on the student’s aptitude for the research in question.

The Committee will grant admission and award the scholarships associated with each particular line of research based on the results of the selection exam. The Committee will also take into account each applicant’s preferred lines of research, as identified in their application.

The selection procedure aims at assessing the qualifications, capacity and aptitudes of candidates for scientific research and their personal motivations. It involves an assessment of the CV and an in-person or online interview.

The candidate’s CV will be evaluated before the interview. Candidates will be able to see the result of the evaluation on the University portal on the programme webpage.

Evaluation of the CV will take into account the candidate’s entire university studies, any publications, any professional experience and other qualifications, if any. The Examining Committee can give a maximum of 30 points for the CV, taking into consideration the conditions and the amount of time taken by the candidate to obtain their qualifications.

Candidates who obtain a score of at least 50% of the maximum points obtainable for the CV can be called for interview.

The interview is public; the date will be posted on the University portal following the assessment of qualifications. The interview is intended to assess the candidate’s comprehension of topics germane to the PhD programme, in terms of the programme educational and scientific goals, followed by a general discussion aimed at verifying the candidate’s skill set, his or her scientific acumen and personal motivations. A maximum of 70 points may be assigned to the interview.

The interview can be in Italian or English, at the candidate’s choice. Anyway, candidates can state their preference to be interviewed in English.

To be allowed to sit for the interview, candidates must present one of the following forms of ID: identity card; passport; (Italian) driving licence.

The outcome of the interview process will be communicated by the Committee at the end of the interviews.

At the end of the interviews, the Committee draws up a general ranking list according to the total score assigned to the candidates for their CV and interview. Candidates must obtain a minimum score of 70/100 to pass the admission exam.

The general ranking is published on the Postgraduate admission rankings page in the days following the examinations.

The Committee must conclude its work by 16 January 2023.
Art. 7 - Admission to the PhD programmes

Applicants are admitted to the programmes according to their position in the ranking list until the number of places available has been filled. Where applicants achieve the same score, preference will be given to the younger applicant, with the exception of the right of priority criterion for doctoral scholarships set forth in art. 9 of this call for applications. The rankings of eligible applicants will be published in the days following the interviews on the University website at the Postgraduate admission rankings page.

Such ranking posted on the University website constitutes notification to the interested parties, who will not receive any written notice.

Applicants admitted to the programmes lose their entitlement if they fail to enrol by the deadline, as specified in art. 8 below. Their place is then given to the next applicant in the ranking list. This also applies if an admitted applicant withdraws from the programme during the first three months. If the withdrawing student has already received any monthly scholarship payments, he/she is required to return them. Takeover applicants will be contacted personally by email by the Doctoral Students Administration Office (Segreteria Dottorati), which will provide instructions and deadlines for enrollment.

A student may rank high enough to be admitted into multiple programmes, but may only matriculate into one.

THE RECTOR

(signed Elio Franzini)

Filed as record no. 5401/2022 of 25.11.2022
Data Sheet of the PhD programme “Intersectoral innovation: Dottorato Intersettoriale per l’innovazione”

Learning objectives

The PhD programme in INTERSECTORAL INNOVATION intends to develop a cadre of professionals equipped with the field-specific and interdisciplinary skill set needed to access, both during their doctoral programme and in their professional career thereafter, entirely novel professional opportunities. This decidedly intersectoral training will pave the way for a career in academia or in business or industry, facilitating the transfer of knowledge and techniques intrinsic to the academic sphere to the world of manufacturing and production. These professionals are expected to become a driving force for an increasingly connected and effective cooperation between business and academia. Students will be specifically trained to be able to take on research responsibilities and approaches in those knowledge fields where processes are characterised by a high degree of scientific, technological and societal innovation. The multidisciplinary nature of UNIMI allows the institution to develop high-level, field-specific and interdisciplinary doctoral learning pathways, newly customised to the needs of the businesses partnering with our PhD programme, and of the manufacturing and public sector at large. Students will have access to a broad network of research institutions and have the chance to conduct research in Europe's most sophisticated facilities, thanks to the nationally and internationally relevant projects in which our programme instructors participate. This level of international exposure is ensured by UNIMI’s status as the sole Italian member of LERU (League of European Research Universities), and as founding member (in 2019) of the 4EU+ Alliance, along with five other major Universities (the Sorbonne, Charles University in Prague, and the Universities of Heidelberg, Warsaw, and Copenhagen), with the mission of creating a European university campus marked by the international mobility of its students, instructors and staff, and by an organic synergy between the classroom and the research laboratory. There are presently 34 PhD programmes available at UNIMI, which can be grouped into three macro-categories: science and technology; medicine and healthcare; humanities, law, and social sciences. Over the past few years, within each doctoral programme there has been a major push to draw top instructors and experts in their domain both from the University's own faculty and from other institutions and organisations. The INTERSECTORAL INNOVATION faculty will be made up of business leaders, University instructors possessing a high level of scientific knowledge coupled with contacts in both the business world and in the public sector, and finally of the coordinators of UNIMI’s current doctoral programmes (or their deputies). The broad range of research topics explored within the University’s 34 PhD programmes will allow students to identify the best educational pathway to reach their research goals, with the active support of the programmes’ business partners, as well as of the manufacturing and institutional infrastructures for which Milan, and the Region of Lombardy more generally, are renowned. To that end, each student will have the support of two supervisors, one from within the University, and one business leader. These ad-hoc programmes will be developed in sync with the company and the PhD programme’s faculty, and will require both University coursework as well as research activities.
